Let's work as a team! Don't waste rehearsal time. While at rehearsal stay focused and pay attention. When you're not being directed BE QUIET. When you are being directed BE QUIET. There will be too many people here for goofing around and talking, and we have a lot of work to do. If your part doesn't come up for a while stay out in the hall and work on lines, dance steps, homework, etc. but keep the noise down. See form.

Rehearsals: See attached schedule and attached guidelines. The dates and times of events and rehearsals are subject to change. Check the website daily for updates. (kickapootheater.com). If you are more than 5 minutes late without prior arrangements, your rehearsal time will be extended by the number of minutes you are late. Failure to be at a rehearsal or more than one tardy may result in you being cut from the production.

Costumes: We don't have the budget to provide everyone's wardrobe. The school district doesn't provide any funding for the musical. Don't wait to the last minute; cast members must have their costumes by January 16.

Tickets: Tickets for the production of Rhythm City will be on sale by December 1. Tickets may be purchased online at KickapooTheatre.com. Tickets can be purchased at the door for $6 if they are available, 5 and under are Free if they sit on an adult's lap.

Dear Parent,

If your son/daughter is given a role in the production of Rhythm City., he/she is expected to be committed to the production. To have a successful production, they will have to be at all the rehearsals and performances they are scheduled to attend. Everyone is expected to attend all of the assigned rehearsals. Failure to attend assigned rehearsals may result in being cut from the production. Tardiness is not acceptable behavior either; it is unfair to everyone that is on time when another person is running late. It is the student's responsibility to know the rehearsal times and when they are to attend. For every minute a student is late, rehearsal time will be added on at the end of the said rehearsal time. Not knowing the schedule is not an excuse for missing a rehearsal. The schedule is set and on the website. The performances are scheduled for January 27-28. Like any special activity, it takes dedication and practice to put on a musical production. Students should come to a rehearsal ready to work. Goofing around and not following directions will also be grounds for cutting students from the production. Students should be familiar with their lines and/or lyrics prior to the rehearsals. If specific deadlines for performance are not met on time, the student may be cut from the production. If an emergency occurs and your son/daughter needs to be absent or late for a rehearsal, let us know as soon as possible (523-8640). If no one answers, leave a detailed message. True emergencies are not the fault of the student, but if anything keeps a student from meeting his/her obligations, they may be cut from the production; this is only fair to the other students in the production.

We don't have the budget to provide your wardrobe. The school district doesn't provide any funding for the musical. If you need help with the costuming, see the costumers. Don't wait to the last minute; students need to have their costumes by January 16.

Please go over this with your son/daughter, and we ask that you sign below showing that you have read and understand the requirements for those that are cast in the production and that you have looked over the rehearsal guidelines and expectations page and the actual rehearsal schedule.

Sincerely,

John Mello

Rehearsal Guidelines and Expectations

These guidelines have been created by the directors of the musical to guide the work of students in all rehearsal settings. The directors ask students and parents to review these materials prior to the beginning of our first rehearsal.

General Boundaries

The goal of the following boundaries is to create a safe space to do work. That responsibility is shared by everyone in the production.

1. Students must attend all scheduled rehearsals.
2. Students are not allowed to leave rehearsal without prior consent from the sponsor.
3. All ensemble members have permission and indeed a responsibility to intervene at any time they feel the safety (emotional or physical) of an ensemble member is in question.
4. A student has permission to stop rehearsing and ask for break if a student has a physical need to stop.
5. There will be no use of intimate touching during rehearsal times, other than as called for in the script and only then with careful pre-discussion and agreement. There will be advance discussion of scenes involving kissing and other physical forms of affection. If any form of physical contact in the rehearsal process makes a student uncomfortable, he or she should talk with the director or another appropriate person either in the moment or after rehearsal.
6. There will be no use of hitting or slapping as a rehearsal technique, other than as called for by a scene in a script and only then with careful pre-discussion/agreement and the help of a fight choreographer as necessary: students are not to strike other students within the context of a scene or improvisation without prior agreement.
7. Students with physical limitations or other known, pre-existing conditions (e.g. – asthma, trick knees, back problems) that might affect their participation in rehearsal are asked to inform the director of those conditions no later than the first day of rehearsal.
8. Rehearsal or performance work involving weaponry of any kind must be approved in advance by a director.
9. All students are fully expected to abide by the school district's drug and alcohol policies.

Dismissal of a Student from Production

A conscientious effort will be made to find ways for all members of the production team to have a positive experience while working on a play. In certain rare instances, student behavior may, however, justify dismissal from the cast or crew of a production. Potential reasons for dismissal are as follows:

Absences: all absences must be cleared in advance with the directors; unexcused, non-emergency absences are not acceptable and will be grounds for dismissal. Leaving rehearsal without prior consent from a director will be grounds for dismissal.

Ensemble: behavior that significantly undercuts the ability of the production team to function as an ensemble will, if not corrected after a conference with the director, be grounds for dismissal; ensemble membership includes a willingness to commit to the rehearsal process within the guidelines outlined above. This includes the wearing of costumes or make-up as designed for the character.

Safety: behavior that endangers ensemble members will be grounds for dismissal; coming to a rehearsal or performance under the influence is grounds for dismissal.
